

SECURITY/KEYMASTER

1990 Ongoing

Truth be told, there are these boxes that hold keys. They're used by Real Estate Brokers and Valets. They open and close and hold the keys on little hooks with identification tags. They're an organizer and a holder, the thing between a property, a car, and plethora of people. And they are boxes. Almost perfect prototypes of minimalism's preeminent prefabricated painted boxes . . . And these boxes, what are they housing: the keys to the "WHAT'S LOVE . . ." series storing the entry to all the directory boards and their precious cargo of my exhibitions, zingmagazine table of contents, and Dikeou Collection acquisitions—noting where each board is, has been, will go . . . The Obi-Wan Kanobi of "WHAT'S LOVE . . ." they are keeper of the truths.
