

“WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE, AND NOT A DROP TO DRINK”—Samuel Taylor Coleridge, Rime of the Ancient Mariner
1992 Ongoing

Isn't it always the case that when your thirsty, there's never water. Which makes the problem almost worse . . . And water seems like it's free . . . It's a natural gathering mechanism of both predators and prey. We all need it and will even sacrifice to have at it. It's the universal element that connects us all. In this case, the water is in a cooler and what does that mean in office politics, environmental concerns, utility, preference. Water, water everywhere, maybe you want it, maybe you wanna talk about it, maybe you need it, maybe you don't. I say, imbibe.
